

Equal Opportunity Cell Report

2017-2018

The EOC gives emphasis to the deprived groups and sections and offers programs so as to create space for them in the mainstream.

Through various schemes and projects the cell tries to create better persons and citizens by training, coaching and capacity building Programmes.

- For the past few years the cell had been diligently focusing on talent maximisation through creative writing .Encouraged by its success EOC decided to redesign the program as a Certificate Course in Narrative Craft so that it would be of greater academic worth and benefit to the takers. A collaboration was made with the PG and Research Department of English . The students of final year M.A. English Literature enrolled for the course. The classes began in September 2017. It aimed at honing the writing skills and increasing the chances of employability of women in print and visual media. Faculty from the Department and experts in the field handled various sessions .
- The course culminated with a workshop and a book with write ups and stories by the participants .It was titled Peapods. The releasing ceremony was conducted in the college auditorium .Prof. Sanal Raj of St.Thomas college released the magazine and spoke about the theories and styles in writing. After judging the assignments and works of students , grades and certificates were awarded at the end of the course. Equal opportunity cell coordinator Ms.Susan Joshi supervised the creative programs.
- EOC caters to the differentially abled candidates and based on their requirements support is readily offered. Voice notes were prepared by the M.A. students for the partially blind candidate of the under graduate class .It was inspiring to find that it helped him for the exams and his scores improved. It made us share those Notes to the voice bank maintained for the visually challenged.

Lady Lazarus

Nightmare: de pro. sine

Twilight Years

D A AM THE UNFOLDED STORY

THE QUEEN

TITLE OF THE PROMISED STORY

THE STORY OF STEVE

Babies Start-Started

Bond Of Love

When you hear your death knell.

honor 9 Lite

And she said Monday

Monkey Corner

A

Title of the story

Out of the Shadow.

